BETRAYED AND ROBBED.

A Pullman Car Conductor Marries

Governess and Deserts Her. A bigamous Pullman car conductor of this city, who has been dodging the police been located by the detectives of this city in the United States army at St. Louis. His name is William Allen, and in May last he lived with his wife and five children at 1237 Four-and-a-half street southwest, and ran on the Baltimore & Potomac running on the road, he met on his train a handsome and prepossessing young German governess named Susie Minnikie of New York, who had only been in the country a short time.

He made the girl believe that he was a man of wealth and leisure and had a palatial country residence in Virginia, with numerous horses and carriages. He made love to her, and being a good-looking fel-low, the young lady was immediately smitten. He met her again on the train coming back to this city, on her way to New York. When she arrived in this city he took her to the Mount Vernon House and they stopped over night. She went to New York the next day, and he accompanied her and staid two weeks and was mar rled during that time. He quieted the ap-prehension of his wife by telling her that ne was transferred to another line.

The marriage was followed by a bridal tour, and he indiscreetly came to this city and again stopped at the Mt. Vernon House over one night. The next morning he said he wanted to get shaved and didn't have any small change. She gave him her pocketbook containing $60. He never returned. The ladies' gold watch and diamond rings were missed soon after he When the young wife realized that she had been betrayed and abandoned she went into convulsions, and the authorities were notified.

Detectives Raff and Block found her in Detectives Raff and Block found her in a great state of excitement, and when her nerves were in a condition to bear the ordeal, they told her that her husband had been clear that her husband had been clear the ordeal, they told her that her husband had been clear the washington club was dreamed of. This left for New York, and nothing has been heard of her since. She was a highly respectable and accomplished young lady. The detectives located the gay Lothario in Baltimore, but nothing could be done by the authorities in this city or Baltimore, because the offense of bigamy was com-mitted in New York. He has now been located in the barracks at St. Louis, and the New York authorities have been DROWNED WHILE IN A SPASM.—About 10 o'clock last night a colored man named John H. Thompson fell or jumped in the Potomac River near Thirty-second street and was drowned. He was seen sitting on the wharf a short time before talking to some men, when a splash was heard, and looking around they found a bag containing the man's shoes and clothing. William Jett soon caught the body with a pair of oyster tongs. Among his clothing was found a doctor's certificate saying that the man was subject to spasms. Dr. Patterson assisted by Drs. Blackmer Stockdale and Lachlan Tyler held a post-mortem exami-nation and decided that it was a case of accidental drowning. It is supposed that he had a spasm and fell over into the river.
